Edited by Jean-Frédéric Morin, Laval University, Canada, Tereza Novotná, Frederik Ponjaert and Mario Telò, all at Université libre de Bruxelles, Belgium

GLOBALISATION, EUROPE, MULTILATERALISM SERIES

'TTIP promises to generate significant yet still uncertain implications for transatlantic relations, global governance and the international rules-based order. This volume breaks new ground by helping readers understand the theoretical aspects of TTIP, its meaning for the United States and Europe, and its impact on third countries and multilateral institutions.'

Daniel S. Hamilton, Johns Hopkins University SAIS, USA

By focusing on the wider process of negotiations, this novel volume presents the first systematic analysis of the Transatlantic Trade and Investment Partnership (TTIP). The authors include outstanding scholars and relevant practitioners from across disciplines and various academic institutions around Europe and North America, but also from outside of the transatlantic basin. While presenting a thorough examination of the process of TTIP negotiations, the volume is divided into four parts with each part examining a broader theme and offering three or four shorter exploratory chapters that are accessible to academics, students, policy-makers and a wider audience.
